Czech Republic: The Heart of Europe

Teaching Guide

Introduction: The Czech Republic is one of the newest nations in the world, yet it has an ancient and varied history. Its location in the center of Europe made it a cross roads for many cultures. Its history spans the best and worst of times.

Activity: Matching Game

Cut apart the matching game cards and distribute them randomly among the participants, so that each have about the same amount. There are 60 cards, so if your group has 10 people, give six to each person. For 20 people, each person would get three.

Instruct the participants to find the person with the match to their card. Encourage those who find a match quickly to help others find their matches. When all the cards have been matched up you can briefly review the sets of questions and answers to see if the correct matches were made.

Optional: English Lesson

If you have the opportunity to borrow a laptop computer with an LCD projector (local extension faculty are the most likely source), you can download the 6-minute video "English Lesson" from the home page of www.czechtourism.com. Find it in the right hand column, "What's New". Warning: it is a very large file and will take time to download off the web, even with a high speed Internet connection.

History: Timeline

Review the timeline with the group, and highlight portions that you find interesting.

The Czech Language

Czech is a Western Slavonic language spoken by about 12 million people in the Czech Republic. There are also many people of Czech origin in other countries, particularly the USA. Czech is closely related to Slovak, Polish and Serbian.

Czech literature started to appear in the 13th century. The first printed book in Czech, the story of the Trojan War, was published at Plzeň (Pilsen) in 1468. After many years of Austrian rule, during which German was the main language of literature and government, there was a revival of Czech literature at the end of the 18th century.

The language can be challenging to learn, with the use of diacritical marks that change the pronunciation of the letters, and nouns and adjectives that change depending on their usage in a sentence.

Basic Greetings in Czech (see if your group can learn these!)

- Dobrý den (Doh-bree DEN)- Good day
- Dobré ráno (Doh-bray RAH-noh)- Good morning
- Dobrý večer (Doh-bree VEH-CHAIR)- Good evening
- Dobrou noc (Doh-bro NOHTZ) Good night
- Ahoj/Čau (A-hoy, CHOW) Hello!
- Děkuji (DYEH-koo-yih)- Thank you
- Jak se máš? (Yuk-seh-MAHSH) How are you? (literally, "how do you have yourself?")
- Mám se dobře (Mam-seh DOH-bzheh) I'm fine (literally, "I have myself well")

Activity: Names and Name days

The Czechs have a unique custom, that of name days or Svátky (SVAATH-kee). Each person celebrates this special day in addition to his or her birthday. The custom originated with Catholic saints' days, but it has become secular, and is deeply ingrained in the Czech culture. Czech parents who want to give their newborn child an unusual name that does not have a name day designated, has to ask for special permission from the government.

Divide the participants into small groups of about 6 people. Provide the each group with a copy of these three lists: English and Czech Name Equivalents, Czech Diminutive Names and the Czech Name Days-Alphabetical List. Working in small groups, the participants should find the equivalent of their name in Czech (if none is found, they can use their middle name, or just pick a name they like), see if their Czech name has a diminutive version (very common in the Czech Republic), and then figure out the date of their name day or svátky. Ask each person to share their name and name day with the group.

On the Czech person's name day, they are treated to a small gift like flowers or chocolate. Flower for the living are only given in odd numbers. Even numbered bouquets are only for funerals.

Czech surnames are different for males and females. The suffix "-ova" is attached to the end of the female's surname. For example, the Holec family's father and son would have the surname Holec. The wife and daughter's surname changes to Holcova. Many grave markers in the Czech Republic list the family name, so since family is a feminine word, Rodina, the surname is feminine as well.

Music

According to a popular Czech phrase, every Czech is a musician. From classical composers like Dvorák and Smetana to polkas, folk music and rock and roll, Czechs value their music.

Czech Film Industry

The Czech movie industry, already influenced by Hollywood, flourished after World War I. The golden age of Czechoslovak film took place in the 1960s. The top directors of the time included Miloš Forman, Jiří Menzel, Ján Kadár, and Elmar Klos. The Shop on Main Street (Obchod na korze, 1965) and Closely Watched Trains (Ostře sledované vlaky, 1966) both won Oscars for Best Foreign Language Film. The Soviet invasion in August 1968 brought the era to an end. The 1990s saw the rise of a new generation of Czech film makers. Svěrák's Elementary School (Obecná škola, 1991) was nominated for an Oscar for Best Foreign Language Film, and his movie Kolya (Kolja, 1996) won it. Hřebejk's Divided We Fall (Musime si pomáhat, 2000) also received an Oscar nomination. Many of these films are available (with English subtitles) on DVD through online stores and subscription rental companies such as Netflix.

Foreign film studios, including those from the USA, discovered the Czech Republic. The Czech Republic became an attractive location for foreign filmmakers thanks to its historical beauty and well preserved architecture that was not damaged in the world wars. Examples of films with footage shot in the Czech Republic include Yentl, Shanghai Knights, The Bourne Identity, Les Miserable, Mission: Impossible, and Amadeus.

Czech Food

Czech cuisine can be best described as heavy on the meat and potatoes and light on the fruits and vegetables. Vegetarian restaurants are nonexistent in the villages and hard to find in the cities. Restaurant menus feature items like "hunter's stew" which contains pork, beef, chicken and bacon! Pork is the most popular meat, and is often accompanied by potato dumplings (knedliky --- KNED-lee-kee) and sauerkraut (zely - - - ZEH-lee). Side salads are usually a sweet and sour chopped or grated vegetable like cabbage, carrots or beets, served in a small portion.

Optional: Photos

If you have the opportunity to borrow a laptop computer with an LCD projector (local extension faculty are the most likely source), you can show the Power Point photos of the Czech Republic. Because it is expensive equipment, you may want to ask the Extension staff to run the equipment for you. To receive a copy of the CD with the Power Point presentations, contact Debra Minar Driscoll, debra.driscoll@oregonstate.edu or 503-623-8395.

Czech Christmas Customs and Superstitions

Czech folklore is rich in customs and superstitions and there are hundreds of those related to Christmas. The purpose of many of them is to find out what the coming year has in store for the family.

Christmas Dinner Customs

Czech Christmas dinner (December 24) is connected with a great number of different customs, rules and superstitions. Very few of them are still observed today, and for good reason. It must have been quite a challenge to put the dinner together and go through with it without a mistake if all the customs were to be followed! Here are some of them:

No lights should be lit in the house before the first star comes out. After it does, dinner is served.

The table should be set for an even number of guests. An odd number brings bad luck or death. An extra plate can be used to even out the number of guests. An extra plate should also be prepared in case an unexpected guest or a person in need comes by the house at dinnertime.

The legs of the table can be tied with a rope to protect the house from thieves and burglars in the coming year.

No one should sit with their back to the door.

Christmas dinner should consist of nine courses including soup, bread with honey, carp, potato salad, fruit (dried, fresh or canned), dessert (apple strudel or vánočka - Christmas bread), and other foods.

No alcohol should be served on Christmas Eve.

No one should ever get up from the Christmas table before dinner is finished. Doing so brings bad luck and death in the family.

Everyone should finish their dinner and leave nothing on the plate.

The first person to leave the table after dinner will be the first one to die in the coming year – that is why everyone should get up from the table at the same time.

Any leftovers from dinner (crumbs, fishbones, etc.) should be buried around the trees to ensure they will bear lots of fruit.

All household animals should be fed after dinner so that no one goes hungry on Christmas Eve.

The Magical Powers of Foods and Plants

Certain plants, spices and foods are said to have special qualities and have been an important part of Czech Christmas celebrations throughout history.

Garlic---An essential part of Christmas that should not be missing at any Christmas dinner.

It is believed to provide strength and protection. A bowl of garlic can be placed under the dinner table.

Honey---Honey is believed to guard against evil. A pot of honey can be placed on the dinner table.

Mushrooms—Mushrooms give health and strength. A traditional meal called kuba, prepared from dried mushrooms, barley, garlic, onions, and spices, used to be served as the main meal in the past. Mushroom soup can be served before dinner.

Sheaf of Grain---A bundle of grain dipped in holy water can be used to sprinkle the house to prevent it from burning down in the next year.

Poppyseed, peas, wheat, barley---If given to the hens on Christmas Eve, lots of eggs will be laid in the coming year.

Vánočka (Christmas bread)—Feeding a piece of vánočka to the cows on Christmas Eve will ensure that there will be lots of milk all year. Putting a few vánočka crumbs in front of the bee hive will make sure that the bees will produce enough honey next year. Throwing a piece of vánočka into the well will ensure good quality of the water.

Apple---If the goats are given apples on Christmas Eve, their milk will be sweet.

Foretelling the Future

The foretelling of the future and predicting the well-being of the family in the coming year is connected with many popular Christmas customs some of which are still practiced today.

The Floating of Walnut Shells---Little boats are made out of empty walnut shells and each family member places a little burning candle into a shell. Everyone's shells are then floated on a bowl of water. If the shell makes it across the bowl, its owner will live a long and healthy life. A shell that sinks brings bad luck to its owner.

The Cutting of the Apple---After Christmas dinner, every person present at the table cuts an apple in half (crosswise, from the stem down). Both halves are shown to everyone around the table. If the core is shaped as a star, it means that everyone will get together next year in happiness and health. A four-pointed cross is a bad omen and means that someone at the table will fall ill or die within a year.

The Pouring of Lead---A piece of lead is melted over fire and then poured into a container of water. The resulting shape will tell the pourer's destiny.

Foretelling Marriage

There are lots of Christmas customs that help young girls in the family find out if they will get married in the year to come.

Cherry Tree Twigs (Barborky)---On December 4, St. Barbora's Day, an unmarried girl is supposed to cut a twig off of a cherry tree and put it in water. If the twig blooms by Christmas Eve, the girl will marry within a year.

The Throwing of the Shoe---An unmarried girl is supposed to throw a shoe over her shoulder and towards the door. If the shoe lands with the toe pointing towards the door, the girl will marry within a year.

The Shaking of the Elder Tree---An unmarried girl is supposed to shake an elder tree and if a dog barks, she will marry a man who lives in the direction from which the dog bark came.

Money and Wealth

Although Czech Christmas has traditionally been focused on spirituality and family rather than on material possessions, there is a custom relating to money and wealth.

Fish Scales---Fish scales should be placed under Christmas dinner plates or under the tablecloth to bring wealth to the house. Carrying a fish scale in a wallet all year will ensure that money will not run out.

Other Christmas Customs and Superstitions

He who fasts all day until dinner will see the golden piglet on the wall.

After Christmas dinner, no field is to be crossed until the midnight mass. He who does so will die within a year.

He who fails to give a present on Christmas Eve will be met with poverty.

A pregnant woman will know whether she is carrying a boy or a girl once the first Christmas Eve visitor enters the house. If the visitor is male, she will have a son.

Czech Recipes

Grandma Minar's Bohemian Kolacky (Koláče) Jean Minar

A kolacky is a fruit-filled bun that is popular in many forms in the Czech Republic. This recipe was brought to southern Minnesota in the 1860s by immigrants from southern Bohemia.

Mix: 2 packages dry yeast

½ cup lukewarm water and 1 teaspoon sugar in a small bowl

Scald: 2 cups milk

Add: 2 cups of water saved and chilled from cooking potatoes

Melt: ½ cup butter, add ¼ cup oil to cool.

In large mixing bowl, place ½ cup sugar, then add the milk/potato water mixture. Then add 3 egg yolks. Beat with electric mixer. Add 2 to 3 cups flour, then stir yeast mixture and pour it in. Add a scant tablespoon of salt and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Mix. Add butter/oil mixture and mix. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Knead 5 minutes. Clean out bowl, oil it, put in dough and coat surface, let rise until double. Punch it down and let it rise again.

Roll dough out to a thickness of 1/3 inch, cut into 3 to 4 inch squares. Put a spoonful of filling in the center, then bring up opposite corners of the dough and seal. Place in a greased muffin tin. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Let rise to double, then bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees, then lower the heat to 350 degrees for about 10 minutes longer. Immediately after removing from the oven, brush again with butter and sprinkle with sugar.

Fillings: For filling, commercially canned poppyseed or apricot filling is available in some stores. A prune filling can be made by cooking prunes in a small amount of water and adding raisins. Another traditional filling is dry curd cottage cheese mixed with raisins, sugar and a little cinnamon.

Bohemian Rye Bread

1 ½ cups water

2 Tablespoons brown sugar

2 Tablespoons shortening

2 ½ teaspoons salt

2 teaspoons caraway seeds

½ cup warm water

1 (2 oz) cake fresh yeast

4 cups sifted white flour

2 cups sifted rye flour

Into a small pan measure ½ cup of the water, brown sugar, caraway seeds, salt and shortening. Bring to a boil and simmer for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 cup cold water. Into a small bowl measure ½ cup warm water and add the yeast. Stir until dissolved. Into a large mixing bowl mix the liquids and yeast. Add 2 cups white flour and mix well. Add remaining flour, saving some for kneading. Turn dough onto a floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place ball of dough into a greased mixing bowl and turn ball over as to have the top greased. Cover and let rise. Knead down once and let rise again. Divide in half and form into loaves. Place in greased pans and let rise. Bake in hot oven for 1 hour. Makes 2 loaves.

Kuba

Serving Size: 8 – Zuzana Holcova

1 ½ cups Barley

1 ½ cups mushrooms, dried

7 cups water

2 teaspoons salt

¼ teaspoon black pepper

½ cups garlic, finely minced

3/4 cup onion, dried, finely chopped

1/4 cup butter

1 teaspoon Marjoram

This is a recipe for a Czech barley casserole that is traditionally served on Christmas Eve but is also good as a side dish. Cook the onion in the butter until translucent. Wash the mushrooms until free from grit

Add the barley (or barley grits, mushrooms, salt and water to the onions and cook, uncovered, until the water has evaporated, stirring frequently. (Mixture will be very thick.) Add the remaining ingredients.

Place in a greased casserole or baking dish and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. I usually cut this recipe in half unless we are having a really big crowd. It also freezes well.

Homemade Noodles (Nudle)

1 ½ cups flour

2 eggs, well beaten

Put flour into small bowl; make a "well." Pour eggs and oil into well and mix until dough is stiff. Place dough on a floured surface; knead until stiff. Roll out until almost paper thin. Allow to dry slightly on a clean dry cloth, enough to prevent sticking while cutting. Cut dough into strips about 2 inches wide; stack and cut into noodles of desired width. Noodles may be boiled in broth, or salted water, without further drying. If not used immediately, dry so they do not stick together, then freeze.

Czech Sauerkraut

2 medium-sized cans sauerkraut, Or 2 pkgs. Frozen sauerkraut 1 to 2 teaspoons caraway seed 1 large onion, finely chopped

Lard
1 Tablespoon flour (more if needed)
1 to 2 teaspoons sugar (optional)

Drain sauerkraut. Wash and drain again if too sharp. Add caraway seed to taste and enough water to cover. Cook 20-30 minutes.

Sauté onion in small amount of lard until light brown. Add flour (and sugar, if desired) and cook 5 minutes until slightly thickened. Remove from heat; add to sauerkraut and cook 5 minutes longer.

Knedlicky (Potato Dumplings) - Jean Minar

5 pounds potatoes, peel and cook in water. Drain, mash with 1 Tablespoon salt. Cool. Add 1 or 2 eggs and about ¼ cup dry cream of wheat.

To the 5-6 cups of potatoes, add 4 ½ cups flour. Mix till dough is about consistency of cooked play dough. Push together handfuls to form balls. Coat with flour. Put in boiling water, stir to prevent sticking, until dumplings float. Cook a total of 30 minutes. Cut in half to check for doneness.

Vanoci Vomacka (Christmas fruit soup)

1 pound prunes

1 box white raisins

1 pound apricots

2 pkgs. Mixed dried fruit

Sugar

ginger snaps

Soak each fruit separately in cold water overnight. The next morning, add enough water to each fruit and boil until done but not mushy. (Some fruits take longer to cook – hence the suggestion to cook each separately.) Combine all fruits and juice. Add 2 ½ cups sugar or enough to sweeten. Add 1 cinnamon stick. Bring to a boil until sugar completely dissolves. Add 6-8 ginger snaps. Stir well. You can add more ginger snaps for a spicier flavor. Serve cold. Keep refrigerated.

Kysela Vomacka (sour cream soup)

6 small peeled potatoes

1 ½ teaspoons salt

1 large carton cultured sour cream

1 pint whipping cream

1/3 cup vinegar

2 cups fresh green beans or 1 16 oz. can

4 bay leaves

5 whole cloves

½ teaspoon dry dill or 6 sprigs fresh dill

dash pepper

1 large onion, cut up

Put bay leaves, cloves, and dill into a small cloth bag and tie securely. Boil potatoes, onion, fresh green beans, and spices plus the salt in 3 ½ quarts of water. If canned beans are used, add them after the potatoes are boiled. Add dash of pepper. Put whipping cream in bowl and blend with sour cream. When potatoes are boiled, remove bag with spices. Slowly pour in cream mixture. Thicken soup with flour and water paste to desired thickness, not too thick. Finally, pour in the vinegar very slowly, mixing so as to prevent curdling.

Boží Milosti (God's Grace or Celestial Crusts)

4 egg yolks

6 Tablespoons rich cream

1 teaspoon sugar

1 ½ cups flour

1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix egg yolks with rich cream and beat slightly. Add salt and sugar. Add 1 cup of the flour and mix to make a soft dough. Add more flour so that the dough can be handled by hands. Cut into small balls. Roll each ball of dough thin. Make a few slits in the dough and put aside until all the dough is rolled out. Heat grease in a deep pan – about 2 inches deep. With prongs, turn the dough quickly in it as it browns and fries fast. Don't over fry. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Poppyseed Cake (dort z mak)

1/4 cup poppyseeds

1 ½ cups sugar

3 egg whites

½ cup margarine

½ teaspoon salt

½ cup water

3 teaspoons baking powder

½ cup milk

3 cups cake flower

Soak poppyseeds overnight in milk and water. Cream margarine and sugar. Add dry ingredients and liquid with poppyseed. Mix well. Fold in egg whites, beaten stiff, and vanilla. Pour into two round cake pans and bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes until done.

Filling:

2 cups milk

½ teaspoon salt

½ cup sugar

1 Tablespoon butter

2 Tablespoons cornstarch
